ENERGY & UTILITIES jobs

This year's National Apprenticeship Week is about building the future, and with the national pledge to cut carbon emissions to net zero by 2050, there's never been a better time to consider an apprenticeship in the energy and utilities sector. Apprenticeships provide a means by which you can receive on-the-job training and qualifications while earning a wage.

Average salaries while in training for most energy and utilities-related apprenticeships are higher than the average salaries for apprentices across all other sectors in the UK.

An apprenticeship in the energy and utilities sector is an opportunity to train for a new role in a fast-developing set of industries at the forefront of the fight against climate change.

PROBLEM SOLVER? LOGICAL THINKER?

WE MIGHT BE THE RIGHT SOLUTION FOR YOU.

Software Engineering Apprentices

London or Greater Manchester area

£22,889 to £24,385 (including concessionary pay) depending on region

Problem Solver? Logical Thinker? We might be the right solution for you.

We are MI5. And we gather intelligence from within the UK. Our work helps to protect the UK from a range of serious threats – everything from terrorism to organised crime, cyber-threats to espionage. Technology sits at the heart of everything we do. It enables us to disrupt serious threats to national security. And this is your chance to be part of that work.

The Role

Joining us as a Software Engineering Apprentice, you'll have the opportunity to learn from software delivery teams that will offer you a unique insight into the work of the intelligence agencies. Through a variety of placements, you'll help to build technology that catches criminals and improves our ability to tackle threats. Our work is constantly evolving, so you will too. Over the course of the three years, you'll become familiar with some of the world's most sophisticated electronic equipment and gain practical experience that simply isn't available anywhere else. What's more, you'll work towards a BSc Honours Degree in Digital and Technology Solutions while you do it.

About You

We don't expect you to know everything – in fact, we're looking for people who want to learn. But you should have a genuine interest in programming and technology. You'll also need (or expect to have by September 2022) 72 UCAS points, and a minimum GCSE grade 4/C in English Language and maths – or equivalent functional skills (level 2). You'll need to be a British citizen to work here too.

As an organisation that values and nurtures talent, we're committed to helping you fulfil your potential. So you can expect excellent rewards and benefits, an inclusive workplace and supportive training.

At MI5 diversity and inclusion are critical to our mission. To protect the UK, we need a truly diverse workforce that reflects the society we serve. This includes diversity in every sense of the word: those with different backgrounds, ethnicities, gender identities, sexual orientations, ways of thinking and those with disabilities or neurodiverse conditions. We therefore welcome and encourage applications from everyone, including those from groups that are under-represented in our workforce.

Ready to unlock your future? Apply now.

To be eligible to apply, you must be a British Citizen. One of your parents must be a British Citizen or must have one of the nationalities or citizenships from one of the following: British Overseas Territory, British Subject, British National (Overseas), British Overseas Citizen, British Protected Person, citizenship of a country in the Commonwealth, citizenship of a country in the European Economic Area (EEA), or citizenship of the United States of America (USA). If deceased, they should have had such citizenship or nationality before death. If you hold dual nationality, of which one component is British, you will nonetheless be considered. If successful, you will not normally be required to give up your non-British citizenship but, as a condition of your employment or secondment, MI5 may impose restrictions on your postings, work travel and/or general use of that nationality. Candidates must normally have been resident in the UK for seven out of the last ten years. This is particularly important if you were born outside the UK. Each case will be carefully considered on its own facts. You can apply at the age of 17 years and 6 months, if successful you will not be offered a start date prior to your 18th birthday. Discretion is vital. You should not discuss your application, other than with your partner or a close family member. Please note, you should only launch your application from within the UK. If you are based overseas, you should wait until you visit the UK to launch an application. Applying from outside of the UK will impact on our ability to progress your application. Further information on our eligibility criteria can be found on the Applying section.
